VERA CRUZ STRIKE WILL STOP TODAY

Mexico City, June 18.—The general strike at Vera Cruz which grew out of the Yucatan strike, will terminate Monday following an agreement by the strikers to arbitrate their differences with the employees. An arbitration commission representing both sides will meet here with a representative of President Obregon.

The street car and affiliated strikes are expected to end during the week. Employers emphatically declined to discuss the question of union recognition and the right of the unions to interfere in the affairs of the employees.

The bread situation has improved, due to an increase in private baking. There are no disorders now.

DETAILS LACKING ON SEA DISASTER

Jacksonville, Fla., June 18.—Telegraphic advices received here tonight from Key West reported the steamers Bella and DeSoto to be "in sinking condition" and added that a coast guard cutter was removing "the survivors" the despatches gave no details as to the cause of the disaster to the two ships, nor their immediate position.

The Bella is listed in the Marine registry as freighter of 751 tons commanded by Captain Hirth, while the DeSoto is given as a tanker in charge of Captain Manning. Advices reaching here indicated the vessels had collided. The steamer Borgestad was said to have aided in taking off members of the crews.

WOMEN WOULD PROBE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

Washington, June 18.—As a result of the failure of congress to authorize the proposed investigation of the department of justice, as provided in the Woodruff-Johnson resolution, the women of the country have organized a clean government league to do it themselves.

This organization, the national officers of which have just been selected, is to function under the leadership of H. L. Scott, formerly an attorney in the department of justice, whose evidence concerning alleged laxity of the department in prosecuting war frauds was the background for the recent agitation in the house.

"The object of the organization," said Elizabeth Mallott Barnes, its president, "is to encourage the study of civic affairs among women and to promote clean government. From congress and the constituted authorities refuse to allow any branch of the government to be investigated, the time has come for the women to have a place in the sun and insist that all political parties get back to the firm foundation of truth and old-fashioned honesty."

"Instead of attempting to limit the voice of the people in their government and blindly trusting the treasury and the management of public affairs to those who by the grace of the people may happen to be in power, the average citizen should be better informed as to how affairs are being managed."

"The organization, which is non-partisan and non-sectarian, will maintain a research department with competent investigators. From time to time we propose to ask public officials pertinent questions and, when unsatisfactory conditions are not remedied, the facts will be given to its membership and to the public."

Says America Needs Doctors And Hospitals

Chicago, June 18.—Pointing to America's need for more hospitals and more physicians to man them, W. A. Pearson, dean of the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia, speaking today at the opening session of the American Institute of Homeopathy here, urged more youths to take up the study of medicine and more girls to train as nurses.

"The hospitals in this country need 9,000 physicians every year," he declared. "The average graduation class from our medical schools is 3,500. This year the number will be only 2,000. So every graduate is positively assured a position upon graduation."

Deficiencies in the ductless glands have considerable bearing on criminality, said Dr. H. M. Stevenson, of Baltimore, Md. Intensive study in this field of science during the past few years has placed the gland treatment far past the experimental stage, he declared.

The attitude of the homeopathic school regarding the transplantation of glands, either from the animal or from a human, is one of receptivity, asserted Dr. Clarence Bartlett, of Philadelphia.

Mystery Shrouds SUN PLANS EARTH TO REGAIN CANTON

London, June 18.—An element of mystery seems to be surrounding the recent movements of Lord Northcliffe, the British publisher, who is reported to be ill.

Dispatches from Paris said he passed through there Sunday on his way to London from Switzerland, where he has been residing under doctor's orders. But his business associates here deny any knowledge of their chief's movements since he left Switzerland. The report from Paris that Northcliffe was being accompanied by H. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times and a close personal associate, were contradicted by members of the Northcliffe organization here who said they had luncheon with Steed in London Sunday.

So far no trace of Lord Northcliffe has been found here, although it was reported from Paris that he was due here Sunday.

John Walter, whose family has long held an interest in the London Times, declined to comment on the report published here that Lord Northcliffe had bought out his holdings in the Times for 200,000 pounds. "I have told all questions that I am unable to comment on the report, no matter what anyone says," Walter told the United News.

CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF HOOKWORM CURE

Washington, June 18.—After extended experiments, Dr. Maurice C. Hall, of the department of agriculture, announced today he had discovered what he believed to be a positive cure for hookworm in a chemical known as carbon tetrachloride. The statement said this chemical, which is commonly used as a clothes cleaner "will likely prove to be a cheap, agreeable and effective treatment for a parasite that is destroying health and reducing human efficiency in millions of people in many parts of the world, including many thousands in our southern states."

Discovery by Dr. Hall of the efficacy of the drug in removing hookworm parasites, it was stated, immediately stimulated medical men in many countries to start investigations from which, the department said, "favorable reports are now being received."

Department records are said to show that 12,000 natives of the Fiji islands have been successfully treated by the same method, a single dose removing all of the parasites from 90 per cent of the patients.

ARCHBISHOP TARGET FOR BULLETS AT MASS

Montevideo, June 18.—An attempt to assassinate the archbishop of Aragon while he celebrated mass here Sunday was made by a 21-year-old youth believed to be an anarchist, who gave his name as Benigno Herrera Salazar.

The archbishop was delivering the sermon when two shots were fired. Both went wild. Three more bullets followed, each inflicting only flesh wounds. The last cartridge failed to explode. The archbishop was only slightly injured. The youth was seized and an effort was made to lynch him. A pistol, knife and fifty bullets were found on him.

Ex-Bandit Villa Now Homeloving, Working Rancher

Mexico City, June 18.—(By the Associated Press).—Panchito Villa, the former bandit, is a peace-loving, hard-working, contented rancher without political ambitions and imbued with a sincere desire to help his people, according to an impression gained by the correspondent of El Universal, who recently visited Villa at his Canutillo ranch.

Villa is described by the correspondent as a home-loving man, who arises at 4 o'clock in the morning and spends the day far into the night in personal supervision of his ranch in the state of Durango. The one time bandit has established schools and set up a code of morals which he enforces with the same severe discipline of his bandit days. All religions and creeds are respected at Canutillo. Liquors and gambling are barred, and every man is forced to perform his quota of work.

Villa is studying English and so are his three children. The former raider, whose illiteracy has been proverbial, has a special tutor. True to his word to the government, Villa is definitely out of politics. To the correspondent he stated emphatically that he would not mix in the congressional elections of next month or enter the lists during the next presidential campaign. Agriculture is his hobby and he is attempting to make his ranch a model of modern agriculture. Villa wishes Mexico to live in harmonious accord with the United States. The correspondent describes Villa as the heaven for good that he says is working in Durango, and as an example of patriotism seldom followed in the republic.

TO ASK REGULATION OF MOTOR BUSES

to possible efforts to bring the bus lines under the regulation of the state railroad commission as the subject had not been broached publicly at that time.

The entire state is covered by a network of lines of varying length and offering varying degrees of service to the public. The most of their revenue is derived from passenger traffic over short hauls, connecting trunk line railroad points with schedules which are asserted to be more convenient to travelers than those offered by the short-line railways.

Mr. Hill expressed a belief that the short-line railroad operators as a whole would be willing to let the bus lines provide all the short-haul passenger service of the state if it came to a point of choosing one or the other. He said that the passenger business has always been handled more as a service to the public than as an avenue of profit to the roads. The railroads, however, are compelled by law to provide the passenger service unless given permission by the railroad commission to discontinue it.

In Basel, Switzerland, is a cathedral founded in 1010.

dustry (bituminous coal industry) and another undeveloped (the railroad) operating with high costs, and a third industry (the anthracite coal industry) which is a monopoly perfectly developed and with high profits, and yet we are told that wage reductions is the greatest need of all three, and that as a condition of business revival the wages of unskilled workers in the mines and on the railroads should be placed below a level of decent and comfortable living."

BOARD (CHAIRMAN) IS OPTIMISTIC

Chicago June 18.—The railroad situation today is hopeful and by fall many of the present difficulties may be smoothed out. Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States Railroad Labor Board, said in a statement tonight reviewing the problems before the board. Neither rates nor wages are permanent, he said, because the conditions on which they are based are not permanent.

He expressed the belief the railroads of the country will voluntarily discontinue the contracting out of work in a short time regardless of their opinions as to its legality and said that this will go a long way toward restoration of cordial relations between the carriers and their employees. The Southern Pacific has taken this action, he said.

His statement follows:

"And all the mutterings of discontent and rumors of war on the railroads the note of the peace bird is still quite audible to me."

A few weeks ago, a leading railway periodical asserted that the labor board was completely dominated by the wishes of the labor organizations. "Within the last few days, the public has been informed that the board is blind and deaf to everything except the desire of the railroads."

"A discriminating public will find the truth at a point about half way between these extremes. A fair-minded public will not stand for anything else."

HAGUE CONFERENCE IS MAKING TIME

Delegates Wait on Result of London Meeting of Premiers Lloyd George and Poincare.

BY RALPH H. TURNER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

The Hague, June 18.—With the determination of the future course of the Hague conference momentarily shifted to London, where the Lloyd George-Poincare conversations Monday are designed to define the character of Anglo-French relations here, the only week-end activity in the vicinity of the Carnegie peace palace are informal meetings among the delegates.

As a result of these meetings, Chairman van Karnebeek has completed the apportionment of representation among the three sub-commissions which probably will be announced at the next session of the conference Monday. Little else is likely to be done at the Monday session because it is understood that the decision of the French as to whether they will participate in the negotiations with the Russians will not be forthcoming until Premier Poincare consults his cabinet Tuesday.

Meanwhile, from the meager beginnings of the Hague movement, it is possible to discern a few of the distinctive trends. For instance, the British have clearly indicated they expect to work out some kind of a deal with Russia regardless of communist theories or the attitude of the French. Russia, realizing this, is sending her best men—Krasin, Rakowski and Litvinoff, and is not only counting on winning something material from England to tide over the economic distress of the soviets, but she is expecting to play off England against France as she did at Genoa.

French representatives here have revived the demand for a commission of inquiry to enter Russia in order to determine the exact status of affairs. Not only will the Russians reject this, but it is unlikely that the British will support the French idea. Even though Lloyd George persuades Poincare to adopt a moderate attitude—at the price of British concessions in the direction of reparations and other matters—it is extremely improbable that Anglo-French relations will run smoothly throughout.

This angle of the situation is giving the Dutch judge concern because while it was avowed beforehand that the conference would confine its efforts to technicalities, it is practically impossible to exclude politics. Here lie the difficulties ahead of The Hague conference, for if the Anglo-French divergencies do not make the introduction of politics inevitable, it is practically certain that the Russians will inject politics when they arrive.

SAVANNAH WANTS NEW FEDERAL JUDGE

Augusta, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) T. M. Cunningham, Jr., J. Ferris Cann and Charles D. Russell came to Augusta from Savannah this afternoon to express to W. H. Barrett the desire of all Savannah that Mr. Barrett make that city his home when he begins his duties as judge. Barrett begged off from discussing the matter of his future residence, at any rate prior to his confirmation by the senate. Mr. Barrett lunched with the committee. The Savannahians returned home tonight. The conference was a very cordial one.

FREE REUNION TRIP FOR JEFFERSON VETS

Louisville, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) The Jefferson county confederate veterans leave Monday on their way "back to Richmond." Ample preparations have been made for a free trip. The Daughters of the Confederacy gave an entertainment and the funds were supplemented by free contributions. The local camp at yesterday morning and passed suitable resolutions of thanks to the town and those who helped so generously to provide for the boys of the 60's. Captain Jones will be in command of the local camp in Richmond.

UPSHAW BOOSTED BY 'DRY' LEADERS

The candidacy of Congressman W. D. Uphaw for re-election was given a boost in speech made in Atlanta churches yesterday by Anti-Saloon League officials, here for their regional conference which will be held today and tomorrow.

Wayne H. Wheeler, Washington, D. C., general counsel and legislative superintendent of the league, said of Uphaw:

"Congressman W. D. Uphaw is one of the strong Christian characters on the floor of the house at Washington. His voice is always raised in behalf of every measure that makes for the moral betterment of the people. He has a strong influence in congress not only for all moral legislation, but some of his finest efforts have been in behalf of legislation in which the people of this state and the south are most interested.

"He is a hard worker, thoroughly in earnest, and his sincerity is recognized by both friends and foes in the house of representatives. His influence is not confined to the men of his own party. He is well-known in many of the northern states and his activity for measures of general interest has given him a standing with influential leaders of the opposite party which doubles his usefulness as a legislator.

In a newspaper interview which Wheeler Sunday night gave to The Constitution, he declared that "Senator Stanley's attack on the Volstead act is the logical of all the irreconcilable wets."

"He confounds personal liberty with civil liberty," Mr. Wheeler continued. "The former insures only the curses of liberty; the latter, the blessings of liberty.

"The constitution guarantees liberty under law, not in defiance of law. The issue is not 'aspiration or appetite,' as Senator Stanley claims, but loyalty to the constitution and the laws enacted pursuant thereto, or the desire to disloyalty to organic and statutory law.

"If Senator Stanley thinks the American people are opposed to national prohibition, he should try to repeal the eighteenth amendment and not repeal or hamstring the law that makes it enforceable. A minority that will not obey laws in a democracy, enacted by the orderly process of government, does not play the game of democracy fair. They are like the bolshevik that will obey only such laws as he personally favors. It is dangerous, indefensible doctrine."

TWO MEN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

of Ashby and Simpson streets about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon in a collision between a motorcycle and an automobile. The motorcycle was driven by Grady Phillips where doctors stated that, while his injuries were painful, they were not serious.

According to the police, he was riding on a motorcycle that was being driven by a companion, W. Arthur Estes, who lives in the house with Bowen. They were coming into Simpson street from Ashby when struck by the automobile driven by Mrs. W. L. Townsend, of 523 Simpson street, who was turning into Ashby street from the house.

"Cut the corner" in making the turn, instead of going to the far side of Ashby street before turning.

Policeman C. A. Chaffin Sunday morning reported to Captain J. E. Chandler that Mrs. G. K. Diden, of 232 East Georgia avenue, was killed down and bruised by an automobile on Peachtree and Pryor street, about 3:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Beyond a few minor bruises and being severely shaken up, it is said she was practically unhurt, and, according to the officer's report, remembered that no case be made against the driver of the car.

The automobile that struck Mrs. Diden, according to Officer Chaffin, was driven by a boy, William Lambright, of 21 East Eighth street. The machine, which the officer states, belonged to the boy's father, was carrying an Alabama license tag.

MAYOR KEY SPEAKS AT NEGRO Y. M. C. A.

A large audience filled the "gym" at the colored branch of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, when Mayor Key addressed the members of the association. He was greeted with much applause as he told of the city's efforts to see that all the people, regardless of race, got a square deal.

He said that if the colored people did not stand by such institutions as the Y. M. C. A., he would lose respect for them; but he felt sure that they would make good, judging by the type of leaders and workers he saw before him.

In presenting the mayor, John J. Eagan stressed the importance of institutions in a growing city that gave their entire time to the building up and developing character. Professor John Hope, of Morehouse college, representing the committee of management, stressed the need of men giving some time to the social institutions.

W. H. King, the campaign chairman, read out the leader in the campaign who had the highest average—Dr. A. M. Wilkins. When it was announced that Dr. Wilkins had paid for the membership of thirteen boys and that Dr. H. B. Butler would pay for five, the audience applauded.

LECTURE ON "TRUTH" TO BE GIVEN TUESDAY

Dr. H. B. Butler will pay for five, the audience applauded.

DeKalb Grand Jury Deplores Powell's Speech

Decatur, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) The DeKalb county grand jury for the June term has "deplored" the recent utterance of Judge A. G. Powell, former president of the Georgia Bar association, relative to the prohibition amendment and Volstead act, at the 1922 annual convention of the association at Tybee.

In its presentations to the court the grand jury said:

"We deplore the utterances of Judge A. G. Powell as reported by the daily press) alleged to have been made before the Bar association at Tybee at their annual meeting recently. In reference to the enforcement of the prohibition law, such utterances are not only hurtful to the enforcement of the prohibition law, but created a disrespect for all law. We feel that the people who have the good of the country at heart will not criticize, but will help to enforce all laws.

The grand jury recommended that the representatives of DeKalb county in the state legislature "introduce and have passed" a measure creating a new superior court circuit to be composed of this county and another bill amending the laws "with reference to pleas upon accusation in the superior court, so same will include felonies as well as misdemeanors."

The report was signed by J. F. McCurdy, foreman; L. J. Cassels, clerk, and W. S. Marbut, assistant clerk, of the grand jury.

PLANS FOR IMPROVING COURTLAND ST. READY

Plans for the repaving and widening of Courtland street into an eighty-foot boulevard have been completed by engineers and actual construction work on the new thoroughfare now awaits final action by city council officials, according to announcement of H. A. Alexander, chairman of the Courtland Street improvement association.

A new cross-city thoroughfare, second only to the Peachtree-Whitehall thoroughfare, will result from the improvement of Courtland street, which connects with the already improved Juniper and Washington streets, according to Mr. Alexander. This thoroughfare, which will run from the extreme north part of Atlanta to the extreme south part, will not only connect the two parts of the city better than they now are, but will likewise contribute considerably to the relieving of congestion on the downtown streets, particularly at Five Points, he declares.

The proposal to improve and widen Courtland street, next in order of improvement after Ivy street, has become popular with increasing momentum during the past several months and the project is expected to be definitely started very soon. An organization of Courtland street residents and property owners was formed several months ago and has been working on the improvement project ever since. The organization named H. A. Alexander, an attorney, as its head, and included a number of prominent civic figures in Atlanta, including George H. Boynton, former councilman, who has favored a number of street improvement plans, including the Whitehall improvement project.

A survey of the street, was recently started by engineers appointed by the association, and their plans for the improvement and widening of the street will now be presented to the city planning commission, the Fulton county Board of commissioners, and to the association itself. These plans call for the widening of the street at all places to eighty feet, and the resurfacing with some permanent and durable material. The street is now only fifty feet in width at some places and at no place more than sixty feet, and the cobblestone pavement renders it almost unfit for motor traffic.

Preliminary Hearing. A preliminary hearing has already been made before a committee of the city planning commission, the Fulton county Board of commissioners, and to the association itself. These plans call for the widening of the street at all places to eighty feet, and the resurfacing with some permanent and durable material. The street is now only fifty feet in width at some places and at no place more than sixty feet, and the cobblestone pavement renders it almost unfit for motor traffic.

The United States army store, number 100-108 Edgewood street, burglarized Sunday afternoon during the storm. It was reported that the negro boys were seen standing in the doorway, while it was raining. When the storm passed they walked away with their arms full of bundles. Their descriptions were given to City Detectives Armstrong and Austin, who investigated the robbery.

It was impossible to locate the owner, so the amount of the loss could not be estimated. The lock on the door being broken, the officers used handcuffs to fasten the door when they departed.

GEORGIA SPHINX INITIATES THREE INTO ITS RANKS

Athens, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) Three University of Georgia men are being initiated into the Sphinx, honorary club at the University of Georgia. They are L. H. Hill, Jr., of Newnan; G. H. Johnson, and Representative P. C. McClure, of Lafayette. Each of these students has acquired numerous honors.

Hill and Dixon are seniors and are prominent in debating and oratorical circles. Dixon is a Phi Beta Kappa man and will deliver the valedictory at the final graduating exercises Wednesday, at which time Hill will deliver one of the academic orations. McClure is a representative from his home county, while he is a senior at the University next year and is prominent in college circles.

Since his divorce from his wife, McCormick has virtually surrounded himself with young people. He has been a constant guest at the youthful daughters. He has appeared at more of the gay social functions of younger society people. He has tried to follow them in their all-night dances, tennis, golf swimming and other youthful pastimes. Recently he was seen showing some boy scouts at a big convention here how to balance a stick on his head.

He is vice president of the National Boy Scout council and an eager worker in this youthful movement.

McCormick recently declared that he had spent too many years making money. In resigning from the great corporation which he headed he declared the text:

"The operation is the result."

In Two Suits. And Sunday, as preparations were being made to spirit him away on the second night of his hunt for youth, he checked to himself and laughed at all those around him. He smoked cigarettes and gaily flicked the ashes with confidence.

But next to his sumptuous and secluded suite was another suite occupied by another man. This man is young. He sold his youth, according to the boy's father, for an "indiscreet sum." According to internes, he did not smoke cigarettes, nor laugh. His name is unknown. His condition was reported "as well as can be expected."

MME. WALSKA SHOWS TEMPERAMENT. BY HUDSON HAWLEY, United News Staff Correspondent.

Paris, June 18.—Mme. Ganna Walska, the Polish opera singer, put on a brief, but highly intensive display of temperament when she was asked about reports from Chicago that her husband, P. McCormick, who has just undergone an operation at the hands of a gland specialist, planned to come to Europe to marry her as soon as all existing matrimonial entanglements have been cleared away.

The United News correspondent called and was ushered in. Mme. Walska registered complete indignation immediately.

"I don't know you," she snapped in her best prima donna manner. "I don't know anybody named Hawley. I don't know any newspaper and I don't want to. So quit bothering me."

With this she flounced off in high dudgeon, probably to give some words of advice to the maid who had just admitted that the Polish beauty was at home.

Mme. Walska's secretary was likewise adamant, but from friends of the family it was learned that McCormick was due to sail from New York June 14. It had been planned that McCormick and a party, including his attorney, would sail to Chicago and his wife—Doris Stevens—and others, would tour Europe together.

Regarding the reported marriage plans, McCormick is said to be impatient that Mrs. Walska renounce her operatic ambitions, but she is still obsessed with an ambition to sing great roles. She practices daily but has some difficulty with the high notes, tries the treacherous passage over again, and meeting with no more success, lapses into a period of neurasthenia and continues to be depressed for two or three days.

Her friends are convinced that once she finally awakens to a realization that she will be unable to sing again, she may marry McCormick, and she persists in alternately practicing and going into hysterics, McCormick, they fear, is likely to be scared off.

It is emphasized that she has not yet obtained a decree of divorce from Alexander Smith Cochrane. A formal meeting between them in the judge's chamber will be a necessary preliminary to a decree and this has not yet been stated.

But there has been no denial of reports that they were going through with the divorce. Mme. Walska is expected to leave her husband's apartment as he convalesces from a recent illness.

Plan Memorial To Honor Men Of World War

"Atlanta service men, living and dead, are deserving of some sort of civic memorial in their honor, and we appeal to citizens of Atlanta to cooperate with us in our efforts to obtain for them this just due," declared Joseph R. Cooke, vice president of the Eighty-second Division association, Sunday in discussing plans for some sort of tribute by the city to the soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the late war.

Discussion of plans for such a permanent memorial to Atlanta boys who served in the world war will feature the monthly luncheon of the Eighty-second Division association of Atlanta in the Peacock club Monday at 12:30 o'clock. Officials of the association have been considering plans for the memorial which will be presented at this time, and it is expected that a definite proposal for an Atlanta memorial to Atlanta service men will result from the meeting.

"No monument, of course, is necessary to glorify the memory of those who served and those who died in the war," declared Mr. Cooke, "but we believe that some sort of civic memorial to these men would be very fitting and appropriate to Atlanta, especially in view of the fact that most other American cities have already created memorials in honor of their soldier citizens."

"Under present conditions, however, we cannot expect and do not intend to ask citizens of Atlanta to subscribe a large sum of money to such a purpose. However, we have plans in mind to pay suitable tribute to these men without any little or large sum of money. These plans will be presented at our Monday meeting."

Another feature of the luncheon will be the discussion of the proposed plan for the erection of a memorial to the Eighty-second division and other divisions in which Georgia soldiers served during the war. At the present time these banners are in storage awaiting plans for their display in the corridors of the state capitol.

grounds for divorce are unequal. A few discriminations peculiar to each state are:

In Louisiana fathers are given practically complete control over their children. In point of fact "In this state the husband is the head of the family and the wife is subject to him. Her legal and civil existence is merged in the husband's except so far as the law recognizes her separately, either for her own protection or for her benefit or for the preservation of public order."

By the Georgia guardianship law: "The father, if alive, is the natural guardian; if dead, the mother is the natural guardian."

"Every child, by will, appoints a guardian for the person or property, or both, of his children."

"Upon the death of the father, the mother is entitled to the possession of the child until his arrival at such age that his education requires the guardian to take possession of him."

In Missouri the wife's services—even her domestic services in the home—are declared by law to belong to the husband and a wife cannot sue for the loss of support occasioned by injury to her husband.

While many women never have occasion to know the laws under which they live, once a woman is forced to invoke the law she finds herself, under the statutes of every state in the union except Wisconsin, which passes the equal rights law in 1921, facing a startling array of discriminations that makes her legal and civil position entirely different from that of a man.

ARMY STORE LOOTED DURING HEAVY RAIN. The United States army store, number 100-108 Edgewood street, burglarized Sunday afternoon during the storm. It was reported that the negro boys were seen standing in the doorway, while it was raining. When the storm passed they walked away with their arms full of bundles. Their descriptions were given to City Detectives Armstrong and Austin, who investigated the robbery.

It was impossible to locate the owner, so the amount of the loss could not be estimated. The lock on the door being broken, the officers used handcuffs to fasten the door when they departed.

"Do you s'pose it's possible to love two fellows at the same time?" anxiously asked Yvonne of the rapid fire restaurant. "Not if they ketch you at it," briskly replied Heloise of the same establishment.—Kansas City Star.

MME. WALSKA SHOWS TEMPERAMENT. BY HUDSON HAWLEY, United News Staff Correspondent.

Paris, June 18.—Mme. Ganna Walska, the Polish opera singer, put on a brief, but highly intensive display of temperament when she was asked about reports from Chicago that her husband, P. McCormick, who has just undergone an operation at the hands of a gland specialist, planned to come to Europe to marry her as soon as all existing matrimonial entanglements have been cleared away.

The United News correspondent called and was ushered in. Mme. Walska registered complete indignation immediately.

"I don't know you," she snapped in her best prima donna manner. "I don't know anybody named Hawley. I don't know any newspaper and I don't want to. So quit bothering me."

With this she flounced off in high dudgeon, probably to give some words of advice to the maid who had just admitted that the Polish beauty was at home.

Mme. Walska's secretary was likewise adamant, but from friends of the family it was learned that McCormick was due to sail from New York June 14. It had been planned that McCormick and a party, including his attorney, would sail to Chicago and his wife—Doris Stevens—and others, would tour Europe together.

Regarding the reported marriage plans, McCormick is said to be impatient that Mrs. Walska renounce her operatic ambitions, but she is still obsessed with an ambition to sing great roles. She practices daily but has some difficulty with the high notes, tries the treacherous passage over again, and meeting with no more success, lapses into a period of neurasthenia and continues to be depressed for two or three days.

Her friends are convinced that once she finally awakens to a realization that she will be unable to sing again, she may marry McCormick, and she persists in alternately practicing and going into hysterics, McCormick, they fear, is likely to be scared off.

It is emphasized that she has not yet obtained a decree of divorce from Alexander Smith Cochrane. A formal meeting between them in the judge's chamber will be a necessary preliminary to a decree and this has not yet been stated.

But there has been no denial of reports that they were going through with the divorce. Mme. Walska is expected to leave her husband's apartment as he convalesces from a recent illness.

TWO WOMEN DEAD IN FIRE AT CLUB

Minneapolis, Minn., June 18.—Two women were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the fashionable La Fayette club at Minnetonka Beach, Lake Minnetonka, near here, early today. A dozen guests and employees among the 100 persons forced to flee were injured. The loss to the building is estimated at $250,000.

SEND S. O. S. CALL TO GET PACKERS FOR CANTALOUPE

Thomasville, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Pelham has sent over an S. O. S. call to Thomasville for additional packers for the big cantaloupe crop being packed there for shipment. With hundreds of packers under the immense sheds, there are still not enough to get the crop packed as rapidly as it should be. The hot sunshine of the past week has done much to ripen the crop and it is necessary to get it moved as rapidly as possible. Camilla, Okechockee and Zeigs are also shipping cantaloupes and the Thomas county towns are also shipping out many watermelons and this week the rush is expected to be at its height. Boston is also shipping out cantaloupes and the cantaloupes will leave from there this week. At every shipping in the county cars will be loaded and the demand for empties is keeping the railroads busy supplying them.

because of her portrayal of "Peter Pan."

Mary Anderson, director of the woman's bureau of the department of labor, because of her official position and work in behalf of women in industry.

Business Women. S. S. Inez Kautz, now head of a large New York importing company, formerly head of the sales distribution of the United Fruit company, and recently a member of the executive committee of the United Cigar Stores company.

Blanche Kelley, president of the National Consumers league and prominent in connection with welfare work in behalf of women in industry.

Julia Lathrop, founder and former director of the Children's Bureau, of the department of labor, now retired and living at Rockford, Ill.

Cassidy E. Watson, founder and president of the Castle School at Tarrytown, N. Y., and for the last ten years president general of the Pan-American round table of New York.

Hawaiian Nurse. Rebecca Okada, of Hawaii, now president of the Hawaiian Women's club, a trained nurse of influence, and said to be the leading woman in Hawaiian hospital work and politics.

Dr. Valeria Barker, of the United States Interdepartmental Social Hygiene board and advocate of sex hygiene instruction in public schools.

Mrs. Henry Parsons, who, at 72, is still actively directing the municipal gardens for children in New York, and has been doing this work for the last 20 years.

Mary Brooks Pickens, vice president and director of instruction of the Women's Institute of Scranton, Pa., a prominent correspondence school for women.

Kentucky Teacher. Cora Wilson Stewart, of Kentucky, founder of the moonlight schools for fighting illiteracy among the Kentucky mountaineers.

Fanny Bloomfield Zeisler, of Chicago, eminent pianist and chosen by Illinois men and women as the leading woman musician in America.

This list or any other of the scores of lists that might be made up from the names sent to league headquarters, Mrs. Park suggests, indicates clearly how difficult it is to determine what makes for greatness. One of the selection committee's first jobs, it was said, will be the setting up of a standard of greatness for women.

Popular Slogan. In fact the charge is frequently higher, for a number of reasons. The European has always figured that the American tourist was fair game—he was over here to be "picked," and he should not be disappointed. He's good-natured, the American, and stands for almost anything. But the European post-war reaction has raised the slogan, "Save the Americans!" to a popular point far exceeding its previous significance.

In England, prices have more nearly retained a fair standard, but on the continent, hotel men and tradesmen have told the writer more than once that Europe's intense war suffering, financially and otherwise, with America's attendant gain in wealth, makes it only fair and proper that Americans should pay now for Europe's war costs.

In many of the continental shops it is notorious that there are two scales of prices—one for the natives and one for the tourists. Another thing that hits the American is the taxation. Your receipted hotel bill in Italy looks like a page from a stamp collector's album.

The American pays; he wants to be a "good sport," but the things he'll say about Europe when he gets back home won't help the cause of international relations.

Nevertheless, They Flock There in Doves and of All Classes.

BY RALPH H. TURNER, United News Staff Correspondent.

The Hague, June 18.—Americans are flooding the old world in unprecedented numbers. They're everywhere—and the tide shows no sign of ebbing.

First-hand knowledge of the situation in England, France, Italy and Holland, supplemented by travel agencies' reports, shows that American tourists of all classes are to be encountered everywhere.

You see them at the Roman forum, stumbling along over the wreckage looking for the spot where Julius Caesar made his campaign speech; they peer at Paris from the Eiffel tower, so they can learn the layout of the city and find their way about without asking questions; they stroke the lions at the foot of Nelson's monument, in Trafalgar square, and suggest the term "circuit" should have been applied here, instead of hanging it on the Piccadilly center.

One Tale of Woe. Their experiences are many and varied, and they recount them excitedly, but there is one tale—a tale of woe—that makes itself heard above all the others. It is a unanimous plaint, it is a vehement protest against the high cost of European travel.

Some one back home told these people, "you can travel in Europe for almost nothing now—the exchange is so low." And they all believed it until they arrived. If there are any Americans left in the United States now, it may not be too late to warn them that travel in Europe is just as expensive as in any other part of the world—in many respects, more so. If they expect to take a cheap fling at England and the continent and have enough left over to eat Palm Beach next winter, they're doomed to sad disappointment.

Exchange is low, yes. But in most of the tourist centers prices have been accommodated hiked to make up for this discrepancy. The hotels and the restaurants, and the cab drivers and the porters, have taken care of this admirably. Translate sterling, francs or lire into dollars, and your tourist friend discovers he's paying at about the same ratio as he would in New York.

BEATING THE WEEVIL.

That cotton production is not an essential to prosperity in Georgia is proven by the splendid results that are being obtained by various farming communities of the state in which that crop has virtually ceased to be a factor in the activities of farm life and in business.

In such communities the farmers have learned the lesson of diversification and have put it into practice. They are devoting their attention in the main to the production of hogs, cattle, poultry, milk, and to feed and food crops, depending upon such commodities for their profits.

As for cotton, they have ceased to depend upon it as their staple

"money crop," considering it a crop of secondary importance.

Bleckley county conditions, which are described by T. L. Bailey, of Cochran, Ga., in a communication which we present in another column of this page—and where pure bred hogs and diversified field crops, according to our correspondent, are "knocking Mr. Weevil silly!"—is typical of such communities.

What practice of the diversification system of farming not only can do, but is doing, for this state in the way of enabling our farmers to thrive and prosper despite the boll weevil menace, is forcefully presented by the editor of The Commerce (Ga.) News in the following description of what he saw during a recent trip through the hills and valleys of Georgia:

"There is no disputing the fact that the people out in the rural sections are doing their best to make something to eat at home. We drove a hundred miles through the country

Tuesday, and such fine gardens we have never seen. The bean vines are literally loaded. The tomato vines are beautiful. The chicken crop is the largest ever. The cows are gleaning on the meadow. The pigs are in the pen. The wheat and oats are being harvested. The corn crop is late, but has plenty of time to develop.

The farmers may not have much money, but they will have plenty to eat. This applies, of course, to the best class of farmers. There are yet hundreds of tenants who have never learned how to make a living at home."

This, of course, is not a picture of ease and great wealth on the farm as a result of diversified farming; but it is a picture of plenty, and of immunity from physical want—which no farmer who depends upon cotton under boll weevil conditions can possibly enjoy!

And the sooner all Georgia farmers, proprietors and tenants, learn the lesson of "how to make a living at home" the better it will be and blessed. A man, or, as in the present instance, a woman, with an umbrella in a prepared opportunity, because he is ready for action. This country is full of opportunists and we have a few optimists, but how many pessimists have we?"

To the humorous anecdote quoted above a "pessimist" would have given a different tune!

Since they hail it as a new word, it can't get into the dictionary any too soon; and as a motto for the business office, and to speed up the

If you keep it well in view!

When trouble's in the doorway,

Just put him in a trance;

If there's no one to hinder,

Take the cabin floor an' dance!

Oh, my honey,

Life is what you do!

Bound to get to glory

If you keep the stars in view!

VOICE AND PIANO CONCERT PLANNED

Mrs. L. M. Calvert to Present Program Tonight for Constitution Radio Service.

Following closely on the success of the augmented musical organ recital given at radio in arena and visitors to Piedmont park yesterday afternoon, The Constitution at 9 o'clock tonight will present a voice and piano program which is worthy of coming on the heels of such an event.

Tonight The Constitution will present a program arranged by Mrs. L. M. Calvert, teacher of piano, voice and violin. Mrs. Calvert will take a prominent part in the program, her pupils assisting in some of the numbers.

Mrs. Calvert has given a number of recitals in Atlanta and is known as an excellent musician. She was graduated from Cox College and Brenau College and formerly studied under Wilford Waters, who is now director of voice culture at Brenau College and who supervises voice instruction in the Brenau studios here.

The program will consist of several voice and piano numbers. In all, about six selections will be given. Radio listeners will be given between thirty and forty minutes' excellent entertainment when this program is presented.

SENDING PHOTOS NOW BY RADIO

New Scheme Tried Out Between U. S. and Italy to Be Efficacious in Capturing Criminals.

The recent demonstration of radio transmission of photographs from Italy to America, under the auspices of the New York World, is scarcely any more interesting than the reaction of the public to it. The feat was wonderful, but people are getting so used to wonders that they pass them with scarcely a lift of the eyebrows.

Yet even the most staid with astonishment at the recent progress of the wireless cannot help pausing to consider the possible results of the transfer of photographs from place to place by means of a simple code of dots and dashes. As a pursuer of criminals almost infallible in its accuracy, unbounded in its scope, and almost as swift as thought in its action, it is likely to prove one of the most efficient weapons ever devised for the capture of outlaws.

Furthermore, photographs and illustrations are becoming more and more a necessary part of the daily news which the public demands; it is now recognized that they are almost as necessary as type in conveying certain information, and often more effective. Foreign news is sure to become more vivid and penetrate deeper into our consciousness if it can come "dressed up" by photographs as timely as the story they illustrate. Countless other uses can, of course, be thought of.

LISTENING IN

The Maryland Radio association will hold the first show to be given in Baltimore during the week of July 10-15.

A number of interesting features are planned, and in spite of the unfavorable season it is hoped that by intelligent direction the exploitation may be made of value to all the amateurs in the district. A. E. MacKinnon will be in charge of the show, which has headquarters in the Ovarian building, 106 South Gay street, Baltimore.

Radio cannot cure all the ills which daylight saving brings in its wake, but it does it not ineffective best. In one case, at least, it has been acting as substitute for a honeymoon for a couple one-half of which is in mid-ocean and the other in a New York hotel. And who will deny that that is a record for even so versatile a medium as radio?

Mr. Sherman Holt came east a few days ago from his Angora ranch in California to wed Miss Evelyn Jackson of Paterson, N. J. Mr. Holt found a trip to Philadelphia necessary on the way, so that they arranged to meet on board the steamer chosen for the

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government

The tremendous interest in radio reception among the laymen due to the entrance of the radiophone broadcasting stations brought forth a demand for simple receiving sets. Perhaps the most popular and simplest circuit for all round reception of radiophone broadcasts is the circuit shown in the diagram.

Single Circuit Receiver.

sired the condenser "FC" should be of the variable air type with a maximum capacity of about .001 microfarads.

A crystal detector may be employed in place of the vacuum tube detector shown in the diagram by connecting a pair of telephone receiver in series with a crystal detector across the terminals marked "1" and "2" instead of the vacuum tube. A small fixed condenser shunted across the telephone receiver will increase the efficiency of the sets and improve the quality of the signals in the telephones.

The principle advantages of the single circuit receiver are its simplicity, moderate cost, and ease of operation. Practically all the tuning is done with a single adjustment, a feature which appeals particularly to the newcomer in radio.

The principal disadvantage is the small degree of electricity obtainable with the single circuit receiver. This short-coming is particularly annoying when attempting to listen to a broadcasting station when a nearby amateur or commercial station is transmitting messages in the telegraphic code using spark or damped wave apparatus. In outlying districts, however, the single circuit receiver continues to give satisfaction.

Single circuit receivers employing the vacuum tube type of detector can be made regenerative, resulting in much stronger signal, by the addition of a so-called tickler coil inserted in the plate circuit of the vacuum tube and placed near the inductance coil so as to feed back to the grid circuit. Careful adjustment of this tickler coil is necessary to avoid distortion of the incoming signal due to too much coupling between the plate and grid circuits. By a gradual increase of tickler coupling the circuit can be made to oscillate and thus become a generator of continuous waves.

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution).

European trip which had been planned as part of their honeymoon. Mr. Holt was not experienced with daylight saving. The rests of the story may be guessed at.

Radio has been doing its best to substitute for more direct communication between Mr. Holt and Miss Jackson. Mr. Holt has been put up in a hotel which has radio connection with all of its rooms, and until the sailing of the next boat he will have to content himself with this method of whispering sweet nothings to his bride at sea, which, after all, is better than none.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Radio Editor—I have a two slider crystal set. The coil is about nine inches long. Do you think a 150-foot aerial is too long?

Your aerial is not too long but only a few turns on your coil will have to be used when receiving the broadcasts on 300 meters.

Radio Editor—What is the resistance of an ordinary electric lamp? E. A. H.

This varies with the voltage that it is intended for and its wattage. A 100 watt lamp intended for use on a line of 110 volts has a resistance of 321 ohms, and the other resistances are in proportion. A lamp of such resistance with the same voltage would pass 10-11 of an ampere.

NEGRO EDUCATOR URGES PREACHERS TO SET EXAMPLE

"It is not the sermons or the lectures you deliver that makes the impression, but it is the life you live in the community, led by the Spirit of God that influences men and women to do right," was the prelude of a sermon delivered by Rev. B. R. Holmes, president of the Holmes institute, in Allen Temple A. M. E. church, Sunday morning, to a large audience. Text: "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the Sons of God."

Rev. R. H. Ward, pastor, paid a high tribute to the work of the Holmes institute, and said, "The institution is doing more for the uneducated class of colored boys and girls than any institution in the city," and urged the citizens of Atlanta to support it.

Plantation melodies were sung by the students of the Holmes institute.

number flooded Piedmont park with some of the sweetest music ever heard there. The other organ number was "At Parting Day," a Frysinger composition for the organ. This, like all Frysinger numbers, can be compared only with the best of organ music.

Miss Allen's second song was the ninth number. In "Love's Lullaby," by Morse, Miss Allen was at her best. No sooner did one start to comment on the clarity and sweetness of her voice until a new quality was discovered that overshadowed the other.

Uses Organ Chimes.

"Chant Angelique," by Leud, played on the organ by Mr. Sheldon, was the tenth number on the program. In this Mr. Sheldon used the chimes extensively.

As the eleventh selection, Mr. Leffingwell presented "Andante Religioso," by Thome, in a violin solo. Mr. Leffingwell's fine technique and expression were again demonstrated in this selection. Mr. Sheldon played the organ accompaniment.

For the closing numbers Mr. Sheldon played "Legend," by Friuli, and by request, "Russian Boatman's Song on the River Volga," arranged for the organ by Eddy.

The program throughout was notable. It is such programs as this that The Constitution will give radio listeners and visitors to Piedmont park on Sunday afternoon all summer.

Scouts Win Honors.

Tifton, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) Tifton Boy Scout delegation to Camp No. 4, the second district Boy Scout camp, returned home Friday, bringing with them seven of the fifteen medals and seven of the fifteen emblems, awarded at the camp. Fourteen Tifton scouts made the trip, accompanied by Scoutmaster L. E. Roy Herring, wife and baby. All report a great time and are anxious for camping time to come around again soon.

H. M. DUBOSE PREACHES ON 'MODERN SAINTS'

Denouncing the hypocritical inconsistencies of modern "saints," Bishop Horace M. DuBose, preaching Sunday morning at the Wesley Memorial church, delivered a powerful sermon to a large audience from the text, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." (Galatians 6:17.)

"Compare the modern saints with Paul," he said, "and we see Paul, the Roman citizen though he was, in the market place of the city, stripped to his waist and receiving thirty-nine lashes from the Roman officers because of his devotion to Christ, while in contrast I am afraid we would find many of the modern saints in the market place of the city to make a corner on bread and to pool the necessities of the poor."

Bishop DuBose also preached at Trinity Methodist church Sunday evening. He announced that he probably will attend the sessions of the North Georgia conference to deliver a series of addresses.

Successful Revival.

Tifton, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Forty-six new members were received into the First Baptist church of Tifton at the service Sunday morning, as a result of the ten days meeting conducted here by Dr. John B. Jester, pastor of First Baptist church, Winston-Salem, N. C. The meeting closed Thursday night and thirty-nine who applied for membership on the profession of faith were baptized by Pastor C. W. Durden, Friday night. Seven were received by letter.

Atlanta Is a Cosmopolitan City

Because the Resourcefulness, Courage and Ability of Her Own Citizens Attract the Same Kind of People From Other Sections

ATLANTA owes much to those of her citizens who have moved here from other sections, and who are in the forefront of every movement that has for its purpose the betterment of business, civic or social conditions.

Atlanta's vast army of adopted citizens have moved here largely because they have recognized in those fortunate enough to be born here a kindred spirit that would afford congenial association for the stranger with ability, energy and initiative.

Atlanta has benefited greatly because of the cosmopolitan character of her citizens. Taken, as they are, from every section and every state, they have given Atlanta a national, as well as a local viewpoint.

The Citizens & Southern Bank, the largest bank in the Southeast, is glad to have had the opportunity of co-operating in the development of Atlanta as a whole, and will continue to render a banking service that will keep it in the forefront of Atlanta's most loyal institutions.

Attractive Deferred Payments on Diamonds

To those who prefer to buy that way we can sell diamonds on such convenient monthly terms the outlay is not felt.

On a $200.00 diamond the cash payment required is $40.00—which is only one-fifth. Six per cent simple interest on the balance of $160.00 amounts to only $4.40, making a total deferred balance of $164.40, which is divided into ten equal monthly payments of $16.44 each.

We ship selections prepaid for comparison. Write for booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," and twenty-seventh annual catalogue.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

In the late winter and early spring an extraordinary number of women write to me complaining of bly hair. This is probably because the hair gets very little exposure to sun or to outdoor weather during the winter months. The woman who has suffered from too much oil should take advantage of this part of the year to bring her hair to such good condition that she will have no trouble next winter. For one thing she should go without a hat whenever possible. When she shampoos her hair she should choose a warm, sunny day and dry it outdoors. It would be an excellent thing if she could go about part of the day with her hair brushed loosely back and hanging in a braid down her back. This is excellent for the hair itself and restful to the scalp.

She should not be afraid of sunlight. Some women feel they must cover their hair immediately with a hat, or put up a parasol the moment the sun comes out. Too much blanching hot sun, of course, will not do, but the hair can stand an enormous amount of heat and direct sunshine.

Oiliness is a morbid condition of the scalp, and too much shampooing only does it harm. Some women say they must shampoo every week to keep the hair fluffy. This is much too often. Once every two weeks or once every three weeks is quite enough. If the hair becomes greasy in the meantime it should be kept fluffy with specially colored powder. Directions for coloring powder were given recently.

E. P. F.—Your scalp is in need of a good tonic which will also act upon the coloring. I do not think the treatment you mention can restore grey hair to its natural shade.

Patricia.—If you take a blood purifier it will clear your skin. A simple old-time remedy for this is made from flour of sulphur and molasses, merely rubbed together until it looks like a paste. The dose is a teaspoonful three times each day for three days, then omit it for three days and repeat the dose again for another three days. After you have taken as much as nine days of these doses, wait for about ten days before you take any more and if certain powders are good for the hair, the skin is clear you should not continue with it.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor. (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

The Best Way to Sweeten Lemonade.
On a warm day what is more refreshing than a nice cool drink of lemonade! To get the best results in sweetening it, dissolve the required amount of sugar in a little hot water. Allow this sugar water to cool. I have found that this will sweeten the lemonade much more efficiently than any other way.

The Play Man's Games

OVER THE TOP.

BY EMMETT D. ANGELL.

Dear Sneaky: It's all over but the shouting. I passed and only three more days and then vacation. Oh, man, I won't have a good time—oh, no! The last day is next Tuesday and we get our marks and we have exercises. That's the best news for a long time. About me passing, I mean, I was kind of scared and, gee, wouldn't it be fierce if I had to be in the same room next year and be with the little kids and have all of my grade go ahead. Gee, I won't take any chances next year only I'm afraid arithmetic will be worse and conduct and application is always hard. Wilbur always gets big marks and Al and Ralph do too, but Tubby and me have trouble. I guess we have bum brains, but any way some great men were kind of bum in studies when they were kids. Even dad didn't get any medals when he was a kid. He was giving me the razz about my bum marks. My grandmother was visiting and she said not to be too hard on me for he wasn't such a wonder in school.

Dad got kind of fussed and said "Mother, you remember too much."

Oh, man, we had a roughhouse game tonight. Wilbur had a new suit on he got for getting good marks in school and I guess he wished he had had old clothes on and not tried to show off with his glad rags. We put his suit on the bum playing a game called Over the Top. The way you play is to have two teams and one gets on a line between two trees and the other team starts from twenty feet away. One extra fellow yells "Charge" and he holds a watch and when it is thirty seconds he yells "Time." All the fellows that get across the line between the two trees win a point for their team. And then they guard the line and the other team charges across.

The kids who guard the line can tackle and bang on, or get a guy down and sit on him or do anything like that to keep him from getting across the line. If the umpire hasn't got a watch he can count to thirty and that is just as good. This was a game the soldiers played in camp. I may have some news next time I write and then maybe not, so good-bye and write soon.

Your friend, your truly,
CHIP.

DRESS

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Metal embroidery is strongly featured for the summer. It appears on frocks of lace and on hats, and tinsel is one of the newest forms of this metal because of its pliability.

To the average mind it seems a bit extraordinary to use metal in hot weather. The fact that it has been done throughout the centuries in Oriental countries where the weather is hottest does not commend it to our taste. The fact that Paris does not hesitate to put it on the best of her new gowns is one reason that Americans take it up.

One has to be careful in choosing the weight of metal to be used. Heavy bands of gold braid are not suitable for hot days, even though they are used on fabrics as fragile as black chiffon. Thick silver galloon is not commended, although it appears on wraps of white broadcloth, of white crepe de chine and Georgette crepe, in the Viennese opera-with-music-by-Strauss style.

What one should use is a thin tracing of metal embroidery, something that flashes in and out of the vision, something not too blatant, a flickering tracery of gold and silver. This was once used on silk jersey by Chanel and other Paris designers, who created American sport clothes. It was used last winter on silk fiber sweaters. One would not really call these garments sweaters for the name does not define. Jumper blouse is a better name. That is the name the English give it. They were the first to use it and see its advantage over the average blouse.

France glorified it by sprinkling tinsel through it and the idea is decoration for this summer gowns and it enlivens lace.

EARNING MONEY FOR YOUR ASSESSMENT.

The alumnae of a good many women's colleges have been asked to pledge themselves to give a certain amount of money within a definite time for an endowment or building fund.

And of course most of the women who pledge this money cannot just sit down and write out a check, offhand, for two or three hundred dollars. They must earn most, at least part, of their assessment.

Many are the ways chosen to earn this money.

One woman serves tea and cinnamon toast or toasted muffins at her house two afternoons a week. She lives in a college community where there is a good deal of social life both among students and faculty. And she charges only a fair price for refreshments.

In winter, small tables are spread about her big living room, a fire is lighted, and the whole atmosphere of the place is most attractive. In summer the tables are spread in a long pergola that runs along one side of her garden. In this way she has made a good sum toward her total assessment and expects to make the rest before the time is up.

Another woman bakes home-made cakes—takes orders for them at any time. She delivers them in her car, or else those who order them motor for them. She specializes on her two best cakes—a devil's food cake that would melt in one's mouth, and an orange layer cake.

Another woman is working her garden this summer for her assessment and selling fresh fruit and vegetables.

And another makes children's smock suits—for both girls and boys. She has sketches of the different designs she makes, and samples of materials, and she makes really lovely suits at a price smaller rather than larger than the same things would cost in the shops. She has plenty of time on her hands and so finds that this work pays well.

THE HOME

IN GOOD TASTE

By Harold Donaldson Eberlein

Joint Author of "Practical Book of Interior Decoration," Etc.

No. 1—What Walls Are

Walls are more than merely the sides of a room. They form the setting within which one composes or arranges the furnishing of the room. Furnishing a picture, only one works with tangible, solid objects, instead of working with paints on a flat surface. The walls, along with the floor and ceiling, therefore, may be considered the fixed background of the room.

But apart from doing duty as the fixed background of the room, the walls have a further important quality.

Whether painted or papered, they are or ought to be either a decoration in themselves or else merely a background for the pictures placed against them.

A wall covered with a conspicuous pattern is really a decoration in itself and should be treated as such. Pictures will not look well against it. They will be swallowed up, so to speak, and the general effect will be confused. On the other hand, a wall covered with plain paper, or with paper of an inconspicuous, quiet pattern, will play up the pictures and the furniture and make them appear to advantage. A wall cannot be both decoration and background at once successfully. It ought to be altogether one thing or the other.

PLAYFELLOWS

BY FLORA J. WOLFSON.

Street car rides usually are monotonous affairs for small children.

"Find the alphabet," played with the advertisements in the car or the billboards and shop signs you pass, will furnish diversion. The players will find the letters of the alphabet in turn from "a" to "z."

This game calls for alertness. Children like it.

"Jumbled Words" is also played with the signs in the car. Mother chooses a four- or a five-letter word printed in prominent type, jumbles it, points out the sign in which the word appears, and then asks the youngster if he can find it. Suppose mother chooses the word "soap." She jumbles the letters thusly: "O-a-p-s" and gives them to the child. His part is to rearrange these letters properly and find the word. When an older child is playing the game it is not necessary for mother to point out the sign in which the word appears. He can find it himself.

A livelier and more interesting game than either of these two is "Traders."

Mother and child silently choose an advertisement. Then the child asks mother: "How will you use what I have bought you?" Mother's answer must be in keeping with the advertisement she chose. So, having chosen a certain brand of coffee, she replies: "I will drink it for breakfast." The child will be very much amused if his advertisement happens to be for "wonderful shoes" or "cleansing soap."

Most street car signs are so familiar that a youngster recognizes them and knows at a glance the article they represent. This may be used as the basis for a memory game. Mother and child glance quickly at the row of advertisements. Then, without looking at them again, each names as many of the signs as he possibly can recall. The one who names the most wins, of course.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The ABC of Retailing," Etc.

To the average housewife all enamel pots look alike, except for a difference in coloring. But this is not the case. When you buy enamel decide first on the finish or color. Shall it be all white enamel for a white kitchen?

WHY?

Why did our May sales exceed in volume each of the past nineteen months? This result was due to many factors, but the most important was the fact that we were able to offer you a better value than any other store in the city.

Answer—Mouldings, Frames, Mirrors, Etc., that have pulling power, trade, that create demand and pull up sub-normal business to normal.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 48, Fulton, Arkansas.

It's this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

SOCIABILITY RUN TO BEGIN TUESDAY

The seventh annual sociability run, under the direction of the Georgia State Automobile association which is scheduled to leave here next Tuesday morning for a three days' 700-mile trip, will be in the nature of a good roads campaign drive. About fifteen cars, carrying 40 people, including the Rotary club's boys' band, will be in the procession and twenty-one counties will be visited. The auto good roads boosters will not only take along music, but also speakers and better roads enthusiasts. Among the speakers will be Judge G. H. Howard, former attorney for the state highway commission; T. G. Farmer, Jr., W. Tom Wynn, T. G. Woolford, Oscar Mills and others. Arrangements have been made for night meetings at Columbus, Americus and Fort Valley. Numerous impromptu sessions will be held at various points along the route. At all places the public will be urged to support the movement for the proposed $75,000,000 good roads bond issue.

Will Leave Tuesday.
The motorcade will leave the Ansley hotel, headquarters of the Good Roads association, early Tuesday morning. Its first stop will be at Newnan, only a short distance out. From Newnan, the tourists will drive to Greenville and Hamilton. At Hamilton a delegation from the chamber of commerce at Columbus will meet the invaders and escort them into the city, where a dinner will be given at the Ralston hotel and later in the evening a good roads mass meeting will be held at the courthouse. The party will stay in Columbus Tuesday night.

On Wednesday morning the first stop on the second day's schedule will be at Cusseta, Richland, Lumpkin and Cuthbert. They will drive to Buena Vista and thence to Montezuma and Butler—all county seat towns on the way to Fort Valley. The night mass meeting will be held at Fort Valley, where Emmett Houser is arranging the program and one of the most successful sessions of the entire trip is in certain prospect.

Will Go to Roberts.
On Friday the motorists will go to Roberts and thence to Thomaston. From Thomaston they will drive to Zebulon, where Mayor J. R. Graves and other citizens are preparing for a cordial reception.

The route takes the visitors through exactly twenty counties, not including Fulton. These counties are Campbell, Coweta, Merriam, Harris, Muscogee, Chattahoochee, Stewart, Randolph, Webster, Sumter, Schley, Marion, Macon, Houston, Taylor, Person, Pike, Spalding, Henry and Clayton. The trip was planned through this particular section because the cities and counties in this area have not become thoroughly organized in support of the proposed measure which will permit a vote upon the proposed bond issue.

Tuckers' Hitting Wins.
New Orleans, June 18.—Chiefly due to the hitting of Tucker, who smashed two 2-baggers and a home run, the Orleans came from behind and won the four straight over Nashville by a 4-0 margin in this afternoon's game 6. Winn went to places in the 1st inning when the locals got to for six hits and four runs. Tucker's home run was over the right fence and scored two men ahead him.

condition of the course, sun-baked as it was, this was a very good score. Walter Wolf was second in the field with a 77. E. O'Callaghan was third with an 81.

The bronze medal for the highest score was turned in by L. P. Latham with a 90. Latham was a little problem. There was but one golfer in Atlanta that had a chance to beat Latham for this honor and fortunately it was John W. Lee, who is at present spending his vacation in Nashville, where the bubbling of the political pot has caused him to forego his golfing. John W. Lee is the one that best him in the golf course.

QUALIFYING ROUND IN SOUTHERN STARTS TOMORROW

Visiting Golfers Play Last Preliminary Rounds Today at East Lake

Match Play for Southern Amateur Title and the George W. Adair Trophy Starts Wednesday.

BY MIKE THOMAS.

The first pair will tee off for their qualifying round in the Southern amateur championship, held under the auspices of the Southern Golf association, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, and these will be followed at five-minute intervals by other pairs until the entire field has been started on their way to the southern amateur golf title or other lesser honors that will fall to the lot of entrants, other than the next title holder.

Today is the last opportunity that the invading hosts in quest of the southern amateur championship, that will be played over the course at East Lake starting tomorrow, to acquaint themselves with the intricacies that nature and the hand of man have placed in the way of the enterprising golfer and a good score. That these little things are there will be admitted by most every visiting golfer.

Octavius Roy Cohen, of Birmingham, said that on the first day that he played the course a large number, of which there are several scattered about the course, raced into the fairway and gobbled up what he thought was a perfect shot. Without this "toward" event happening, this worthy stated that he would have made a very good score. He was thankful for one thing, however—this happened only on one hole.

Golfers have been arriving in Atlanta for the past three days and to name them would simply be a roster of the best players in the south. Some few are missing at this time but all hope has not been abandoned that these expected ones will arrive in time to tee off at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Of course the entry list has been officially closed, but at least some of our information, but in our small experience in golf tournaments here, there and elsewhere, we have never seen any qualified golfer with the necessary entry fee in sample paw, fail to get a chance to get into the field for a try.

The Adair Trophy. In addition to winning the southern amateur championship and other honors and emblems that go with this title, the winner this year will have the added distinction of winning, for his club, the George Adair trophy. This trophy will be held by the winner's club for one year, but it will never become the property of any club or individual.

It is extremely fitting that the Adair trophy be played for this first year over the course in which the late George W. Adair was so interested. The fairways and greens and bunkers show the master touch of this pioneer golfer of the south. Mr. Adair traveled thousands of miles looking over courses and many of the holes at East Lake are modeled after the famous holes on European courses.

Four Flights at Lake. There will be four flights at East Lake in the southern amateur championship. These 64 will be the lowest scores turned in on the qualifying 18 holes that will be played tomorrow morning, the entire day will be used in qualifying and match play will start Wednesday.

It is a rather hard proposition to state, at this time, just how many entries the event will have this year. If all the stories from the different towns that have signified their intention of sending anywhere from three to twenty golfers come to scratch, the entry list will be well along toward three hundred. However, with interferences that fall to the lot of the good intentions of good golfers, at all times, it is thought that the list will include in the neighborhood of two hundred.

Probable Winners. The black line just preceding the opening of this paragraph may have brought an eager light into the eyes of those who follow the game closely. Knowing something of golf in her most obstinate mood, we feel that we are safe in saying that any man entered in the tournament with a handicap of less than 18 has a chance of winning. He might be a 17 handicap man or one of the plus 4 variety, and he may win the championship or he might win the trophy that will go to the winner in the fourth flight at East Lake or the seventh flight of the invitation tournament at Druid Hills, but at this writing he is a probable winner—and each and every entrant feels that he has a good chance to win the prize.

We are going to limit our pick of probable winners to three and already we hear the names of amusement. Our choices are Bob Jones, of Atlanta; Jack Venzler, of Memphis, and, for a reason that he carries the same cognomen as our own, in addition to the fact that he is one of the best golfers in the field and a southpaw at that, we take as our third choice, Mike Thomas, of Nashville, Tenn. Now that we have made this choice—we wish to broadcast the information that we are opposed to even the smallest wagers—in a golfing event.

Sherwood Is Here. On Saturday we saw these of the most beautiful wood golf clubs that has ever been our privilege to wage. These are now the property of Bob Jones and he will use them during the tournament, even at the risk of having some rabid lover of the game and good clubs, assault him on the course and adopt these clubs for his very own. These clubs were presented to Bob by W. C. Sherwood, who will have a large hand in engineering the tournament. Sherwood is a professional that has, by his own confession, turned honest. He has charge of the club-making for one of the largest golf club manufacturers in the world.

"Dutch" Bernsen were seen playfully smiting the elusive little pellet all over the course. Tomorrow will be ladies' day at Ponce de Leon and every lady in Atlanta is invited to the park as the champion of the Atlanta Baseball company. There are no charges of any nature, except for the men folks on this day. President Spiller stated last night that he hoped there would be at least 2,000 visitors of the fair sex at the Tuesday game. Tuesday will close the Little Rock series and then the playful Birmingham Barons will arrive for many ball games in a short space of time.

"Do you think girls ought to put on knickerbockers?" "Yes," replied Miss Gayne; "especially those I have seen photographed in bathing suits." —Washington Star.

LITTLE ROCK GAME TODAY

The Atlanta Crackers will take on their old opponents from Little Rock, commonly known as the Travelers, in the third game of their four-game series and the locals will be putting up a strong fight to win both games. After beating their jinx, Rube Robinson, in Saturday's fracas they are going after the Travelers tooth and toenail.

Quite a number of the Crackers journeyed out to the Piedmont golf course yesterday and played a round or two or three. Arthur Ritter and

Hagan Favored to Win British Open Hutchison Not Expected to Repeat

BY HAROLD HILTON

Sandwich, Eng., June 18.—Jock Hutchison took our championship cup away to your land last season and I must acknowledge that we were not altogether prepared for the theft, as we had an idea that British golf was sufficiently strong to keep a grip on it. Our home professionals were quite convinced that the British cup would leave these shores.

But they proved sadly in error. This year they appear quite prepared to see it flitting overseas again, and perhaps the public is even more prepared for this eventuality, as it is common knowledge that many are prepared to wage even money that some player doesn't win. In other words, they are prepared to trust their money on the overseas players who include, your three boys, Jock Hutchison, Jim Barnes and Walter Hagan, the Australian star; Joe Kirkwood, and several continental players. This plainly shows the wholesome respect England has for the golfing abilities of Hutchison, Barnes and Hagan.

If you happen to meet an American here and ask which of your men has the best chance, he will reply, three times out of four, "Walter Hagan." A majority appear quite convinced that he will be the star performer of the year. (This is, however, an opinion which is not endorsed by critics on this side and on evidence of his play the last two seasons on British links. There is justification for this lack of endorsement as Hagan's form has not been convincing as that of either Hutchison or Barnes, the present American open champion. On the other hand, we recognize that American critics must have a very sound foundation for their belief in Hagan. One American judge put Hagan's case thus: "Walter is a test player we have, to be sure, and once he gets the lead it's darned hard for the others to get him out."

There is an impression over here that Hagan will suffer by comparison with Barnes, Hutchison and other golfers from the states in that he learned the game on inland courses. To Americans this may not appear to be a very serious handicap, but it's a sure fact that the championship was never yet won except by a golfer whose game was born and bred on a seaside course. Of the present day crackcracks, Mitchell and Havers are the outstanding figures among those who learned the rudiments of the game on inland soil. Mitchell has been very successful, it is true, but it is a fact that practically all of his greatest achievements were accomplished on inland courses and that he has not appeared to such great advantage when playing on a seaside course.

Wind May Affect Game. Critics on this side will suggest that if there is a strong wind blowing at Sandwich during the next four days of the tournament it will affect your players, and Hagan particularly. But from what I have seen of American players in this country, I don't altogether agree with this verdict. I saw Johnny MacDermott playing at Hoylake in the worst weather we have ever encountered in a championship tournament, and the Britishers had nothing on Johnny that day. In truth, he was one of the very few who were not altogether buffeted to pieces by the elements. If an American is to win once again, there is an impression among the home critics that it will probably be Jim Barnes, as we all have great admiration for Long John's ability and his play for seven-eighths of the long journey last year was most impressive.

For some reason or other Hutchison is not expected to repeat last year's success. People say that Hutchison is out of his ribbed clubs, won't be the same player as he was with them and they certainly seem to help him through to victory at St. Andrews. Momentarily, the favorites are Dunlop, Kirkwood, Barnes, Hagan, Ray and Mitchell, but faith in Mitchell is not over strong, as he seems to have struck a bad patch. George Duncan is looked upon as our great mainstay.

JUDGING FROM the work of that Million-Dollar infield, maybe John McGraw walked off leaving about $999.99 change on the counter.

BANCROFT, FRISCH and Groh have made more ignoble errors among them this season than you'd ordinarily expect from a triumvirate wearing their price tag. Some of those committed on the western tour were highly expensive bobbles and Captain Davey made two more in one recent game with the Cubs at the Polo Grounds.

A MAN MUST ER now and again to prove he's human but a Million-Dollar infield should not be too human. One mistake proves the case and the rest are costly reiteration.

IT'S A QUESTION whether the second baseman, shortstop and third baseman get hotter chances to handle than a first baseman. At any rate, the fact now seems to be that they do. Get George Kelly, the first baseman of that famous infield, has been exceedingly inconspicuous in the matter of booting his chances. And Shuffy McDaniel, a first baseman as human ball-player as first base with an error in a whole season of 152 games with the Red Sox last year, making 1,549 putouts and 102 assists.

URBAN SHOCKER, the Brown's pitcher, boasts that he can beat the Yankees on crutches. In the hope of thwarting this purpose the Yanks are ordered not to play on crutches.

BOBBY BARRETT has the true professional boxer's instinct. Knocked kicking by a solar plexus blow he gasped foul with his first returning breath. The next day he backed on his professional training.

"I GUESS it wasn't too far after all," said Bobby.

HOW CAN A MANAGER win fights for such a boxer?

are one and one half games ahead of the Yankees.

More Cotton Consumed As Industry Improves

New York, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Industrial and financial conditions in the last week presented a generally favorable aspect, notwithstanding the reactionary tendency in the securities market, which apparently was connected with the technical speculative position.

Steel production exceeded the best rate previously attained this year. More coke plants were started and more blast furnaces blown in. Coal production was greater and some observers believe that plants were in preparation for re-opening union mines in the Pittsburgh district.

Detroit employment figures showed another increase, thus confirming statements of automobile manufacturers as to the continuance of satisfactory business.

Railroad car loading figures continue good, although the absolute number reported during the week ended June 8, was smaller than in the previous week, the rate was higher, if allowance be made for the memorial day holiday.

Cotton Consumption.

A similar calculation showed that the gain in the absolute amount of cotton consumed by mills during May as compared with April was not accounted for merely by the greater number of working days in the latter month. May's takings corresponded almost exactly to the average for the last ten months, which in turn were 23 per cent greater than those in the corresponding period a year ago.

If the present rate of consumption is continued during June and July the total for the crop year will amount to nearly 6,000,000 bales. Exports during the same interval will have drawn slightly more than another 6,000,000 bales from our supplies. As the actual yield of the last crop totalled 8,300,000 bales, it was believed that the carry-over will have been reduced by approximately 4,000,000 bales. It will be, in fact, somewhat less than normal. Prospects for a full crop in the coming year meanwhile remained doubtful, and operations in the New Hampshire textile mills were reported to be showing a greater disposition to return to work.

Money Market.

The week which brought unusually large financial transactions by the treasury passed without creating any disturbances in the money market. These transactions, which centered on June 15, included the collection of $300,000,000 in income taxes, the payment of $125,000,000 in interest on liberty bonds, the paying off of $380,000,000 in maturing certificates of indebtedness, the redemption of $250,000,000 in victory notes and the flotation of $250,000,000 in new certificates.

The rate on call money, the most sensitive index of the market's condition, ruled at close to 3 per cent throughout the week and at 2 3/4 per cent, touched what was virtually a new low since October 1917.

Foreign Issues Dominate Dwindling Bond Market

New York, June 18.—New offerings or underwritings last week approximated $82,000,000 as compared with $85,000,000 in the previous week and a weekly average of $100,000,000 in the first four months of the year.

Foreign issues again were conspicuous, notably the Jugo-Slavia $25,000,000 8 per cent external issue offered by a countrywide banking syndicate at a price to yield 8.40 per cent.

Among the more prominent domestic loans were state and municipal issues aggregating $9,000,000; public utilities amounting to $12,050,000; railroads, $12,000,000, and industrial, $22,000,000.

These included $7,000,000 7 1/2 per cent public service corporation of Illinois; $15,000,000 Atlantic Refining Co.; $12,000,000 Cleveland Union Terminal 5 1/2 per cent, and several small offerings by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and several minor western roads.

The investment market, as evidenced by the ready sale of these varied offerings, retained all of its recent note of confidence, but trading in the general list frequently was influenced by the unsettled course of the stock market.

Liberties were a notable exception the 3 1/2 and several 4 1/4 establishing still higher records for a year or more, while a majority of the entire series again sold well above par.

Mexican governments were most uncertain of the old-time loans, but rose briskly just before the signing of the agreement with the international bankers and added to their recovery after the terms of the pact were made known.

Prices of junior rails were hesitant, some yielding on extensive realizing sales, and others losing ground as a result of denials of recent rumors of prospective mergers or traffic agreements.

War-time flotations of the European governments were dull and held comparatively firm in view of the weakness of international currencies, including sterling exchange.

Hot, Dry Weather Cause Of Reaction in Cotton

New Orleans, June 18.—A reactionary tendency took possession of the cotton market last week mainly because of the advent of hot and dry weather in the belt, and prices were lower from the opening, although there were strong recoveries in the late session and highest prices were reached on the last session of the week.

Prices were under closing level of the preceding week, the whole week through, standing at their lowest 90 to 104 points under and at their highest 18 to 23 points under and closing at net losses of 20 to 32 points. July traded at 21.44 at its lowest, came back to 22.20 at its highest and closed at 22.22.

In the department midding closed at 21.88, showing a net loss of 27 points. A year ago middling closed at 10.75 cents a pound.

During nearly the entire week the greater part to the belt experienced dry and hot weather which, according to reports to local brokerage concerns, allowed the cultivators of the crop to make fast progress and was considered to be forcing weather for the plant as well as the most effective thing to hold the activities of the boll weevil down. Toward the close of the week rains in south Texas caused buying furies which carried the market to its highest levels. The better turn in weather conditions was mainly responsible for the selling of the week and especially in the earlier sessions.

New selling was not carried on aggressively because of the extremely favorable showing of statistics and the general disposition to think that there was nothing as yet in sight to indicate anything larger than a moderately small crop. The census bureau report on American mills for May brought the market support as it consumption at 405,674 bales against 440,714 during the same month last year.

Further support was derived from British Board of Trade returns for May, pending Textile ports from England at 14,200,000 pounds of yarn against 8,500,000 pounds the same month last year and export of cloth at 443,000,000 yards against 140,000,000 while some of the heaviest of the weekly cotton statistics on Friday in this market. According to this statement, world takings of American cotton for the week were 228,000 bales against 190,000, this week last year while the total visible supply of American cotton in the world was reduced to 2,006,054 bales against 4,313,827, a year ago.

DRUG ADDICTS FIRE STORE AFTER ROBBERY

Dublin, April 18.—(Special.)—Unknown persons, supposedly drug addicts, entered the drug store of Dr. C. B. Manning, of Lovett, near here, Friday night and secured a quantity of morphine and patent medicines, a quantity of money and have successfully eluded officers who have scoured the country-side for them.

The robbery became known when a small wooden building, a short distance from the drug store, was set afire, it is thought by the same parties. Kerosene had been applied to the front of the shack and it was being rapidly when an alarm was given.

BIG PUBLIC BUILDINGS TALKED IN WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—A united movement has been started in Waycross looking toward the erection of a city auditorium. The movement was launched by the Chamber of Commerce, a short time ago, and is meeting with the approval of the other civic and commercial clubs of the city.

The Georgians, one of the most prominent and influential women's clubs of Waycross, is according to plans from the district, a handsome woman's building.

Club members estimate the cost of such a building as not less than ten thousand dollars. According to the plan, the building is to be planned by the P. D. C. and the King's Daughters will co-operate with the Georgians in this enterprise.

The building as planned will have a main auditorium which will serve as a meeting place for the clubs and for other women's meetings.

TRUCK HITS ROME CHILD.

Rome, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Walter Camp, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Camp, of Oak Park, was seriously injured early this morning near the railroad trestle in West Rome, on the Alabama road, when he was thrown from his bicycle by a collision with a truck said to belong to the Home Vegetable company.

His right hip was crushed, and it is thought doubtful whether he will ever regain its use.

Leaves University.

Athens, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) Dr. W. A. Worsham, for several years head of the chemistry department of the State College of Agriculture here, has resigned his position and will accept a place in New York, it developed today. Dr. Worsham is making the change, college officials say, because he was offered a higher salary.
